Halloween Carnival

What a fun evening! Children and adults enjoyed the festivities as they played, danced and celebrated all things spooky! Thank you for supporting our fiver field trips!

Great work, 5th graders!

✕ Plimoth Studies ✕

Fivers are working in teams to analyze the primary documents that inform our understanding of the harvest celebration - known commonly as "The First Thanksgiving." We are building knowledge in preparation for our field trip on Friday!

5TH GRADE UNITS OF STUDY

Writers have begun their OPINION writing unit which will lead them toward crafting Persuasive Arguments. Fifth graders tend to have strong opinions and this writing unit will teach writers how to persuade with purpose, using an organized structure and tools for elaboration (saying more about why they hold their opinions).

As readers, fifth grade students continue their work of studying characters, and maintaining their independent reading lives. Students learned about reading letters and will begin crafting their own letters regularly.

Math students are launching a new topic today and will begin multiplying multi-digit numbers.
